Physician Pivot Report — Sample

Candidate: 'Daniel Reyes, MD' (fictional) — hospitalist, 9 years · Target: Medical Affairs / MSL roles

The diagnosis

Pivot Score: 58 / 100. The clinical record is strong; the document is the problem. A 9-page academic CV, written for other physicians, is being read by industry hiring managers and applicant-tracking systems that cannot translate it. Nothing here needs embellishing — it needs translating. PivotRx was built by a physician who made this exact pivot.

The translation — clinical CV line → industry résumé line

As the CV says it	As industry reads it	Why it matters
Attending physician, inpatient medicine; managed census of 18–22 patients.	Led daily care delivery for an 18–22-patient service line; accountable for quality, throughput, and safety outcomes.	Industry hires for ownership of outcomes, not task lists.
Precepted residents and medical students on service.	Trained and mentored 30+ clinicians annually; delivered structured education to mixed clinical audiences.	This is medical-education and KOL-facing experience — say so.
Served on sepsis committee; helped update order sets.	Cross-functional committee work: revised system-wide sepsis protocols adopted across 4 hospitals.	'Cross-functional' and 'adopted' are the words hiring managers search for.
Presented cases at departmental M&M conferences.	Presented clinical data to peer audiences; translated complex cases into clear, decision-ready summaries.	Direct evidence for scientific-communication roles.

Keyword map (excerpt)

Clinical term on the CV	Industry keyword it earns
Attending of record	Accountable owner / decision authority
Order sets & protocols	Clinical strategy, protocol development
M&M / case conferences	Scientific communication, data presentation
Precepting	Training, mentorship, medical education
Committees (sepsis, quality)	Cross-functional collaboration, quality improvement

What the paid deliverables contain

Pivot Report — the full scored diagnosis: every CV section graded for industry readability, the complete translation table, and the keyword map for your target roles. Full Translation — the report plus a complete rebuilt industry résumé (2 pages, ATS-safe). Bundle — both, plus a cover-letter frame written for medical-affairs hiring managers. One rule governs every line: translation, never fabrication — degrees, dates, and credentials appear exactly as earned. And the standing promise: if your pivot report doesn't give you a clearer, stronger industry application, email us within 7 days and we refund you — no forms, no interrogation.